our year in numbers

recognition

It was with both enormous pride and great pleasure that our CEO, Michele Casalini, accepted from the University of Florence an honorary degree celebrating his dedication and contribution to the field of Library and Information Science.

The ceremony of 21st May 2019 marked the very first bestowal of the honour in question for merit in modern librarianship by an Italian university; only the second time that a similar distinction has been conferred in Library and Information Science in Italy.

and responsibility

This year we have continued and increased our commitment to environmental sustainability.

We have replaced plastic parcel tape with tape used from recycled paper for our shipments, as well as removing all single-use cups from the on-site vending machines.

We give our full support to the Fridays for Future campaign, with many of our team joining the demonstrations in Florence earlier this year as part of the global climate strike. The opportunity was endorsed by our directors, who granted paid leave to all those wishing to participate.

torrossa digital library and bookstore

This year has seen work on a significant project to upgrade and improve our digital library and bookstore.

The new digital bookstore, now online at www.torrossa.com, reflects our focus on improving the user experience.

In the coming months, the same technological advancements and restyling will also be applied to our Digital Library.

Our current work to significantly restyle and improve the Torrossa platform, and consequently offer an even greater range of digital publications reaffirms our ongoing commitment to invest in new technologies in order to provide the best possible service to libraries and cultural institutions.

The new access point for institutions using the Torrossa digital library is <https://access.torrossa.com>

No change has been made to the permalinks previously provided; these remain valid to access your Torrossa resources as before.

Please make sure that you have updated your internal links to the digital library.

The Fiesole Collection Development Retreat Series

This year's Fiesole Retreat returned to Fiesole in April, with the theme Our Shared Open Future: Building from Tradition and a focus on the application of new technologies, open strategies and the academic monograph.

The 2020 Preconference on Tuesday, April 7, will focus on Greek initiatives highlighting the creativity and forward thinking of our host country. The main conference will discuss Cultural Heritage and the Challenges and Opportunities presented by new and emerging approaches as well as Copyright and EU initiatives, Open Access Monographs, Digital Humanities and Research Outputs.

New Shape
of Sharing:
Networks,
Expertise,
Information

We look forward to welcoming to Fiesole, from 11-14th May 2020, the working forum on current issues in European librarianship.

The event is sponsored by the Collaborative Initiative for French Language Collections (CIFNAL) and the German-North American Resources Partnership (GNARP), both working projects of the Center for Research Libraries (Chicago, USA).

Registration opens on 3rd February 2020.

More details can be found at <http://fiesole.web.unc.edu/>.

linked data

We firmly believe in communication, co-operation and collaboration to optimise new opportunities such as BIBFRAME, Linked Data and Open Access.

We are particularly interested in Linked Data and the opportunities created by this method of publishing structured data in order to continue to meet the needs and expectations of the library community. Together with our technological partner, @Cult, we are strongly committed to developing tools that will bring Linked Data into practice in library environments, through the SHARE-VDE family of collaborative catalogues.

Given the dynamic nature of current developments, individual tools are being developed, tested and shaped in order to redesign the emerging information chain, with a particular focus on the creation of records in linked data format, MARC enrichment with URIs, RDF in BIBFRAME and authority and identifier management.
