

*What is the likely shape of the library of the future?
And how do we build collections for it?*

Fiesole 2019

Our Shared open Future: building from Tradition

21st Fiesole Collection Development Retreat

European University Institute

Villa Schifanoia - Via Boccaccio, 121, Florence, Italy

Wednesday, April 3 - Friday April 5, 2019

Sponsored By: The Charleston Company and Against the Grain

Hosted By: European University Institute and Casalini Libri

Additional Sponsors: Atypon, DeGruyter, EBSCO, MDPI, ProQuest,
SAGE, Taylor & Francis Group

Program

Join us for the 21st in this series of important discussions about the future of libraries, publishing, collections, and scholarship.

This year, our Pre-Retreat Session will focus on exciting new technologies and their applications. Our Full-Day Session will be devoted to a multi-dimensional discussion of Open Strategies, including the important movements of Open Science, Plan S, and Open Scholarship. We will examine and discuss the impacts of these strategies from the perspectives of all stakeholders, and end with a debate and discussion concerning our shared future. Our Final Half-Day Session will examine the Academic Monograph and its place in the emerging environment.

1:00 p.m. – 2:30 p.m. Session Two: Barriers to Researchers Adopting Open Practices

The purpose of this session is to highlight the importance of the attitudes of and problems for the research community, that is, the people who create knowledge - those stakeholders in scholarly communication whose views have recently proved of perhaps little interest to those who make policies.

Convener: Anthony Watkinson (CIBER Research) — “What Harbingers Tell Us”

Alison Mudditt (PLOS) — “Deconstructing the Prestige Economy: And How We Can Catalyze Change”

Bernd Pulverer (The EMBO Journal) — “Open Access - or Open Science?”

Piero Attanasio (Associazione Italiana Editori) — “How Open Access May Serve a Wider Audience”

2:30 p.m. – 3:00 p.m. Break (Sponsored by Atypon)

3:00 p.m. – 4:30 p.m. Session Three: Publisher Strategies in the Open Era

The purpose of this session is to air publisher perspectives on the various accelerating push movements towards open access. While most recently “Plan S” has been proposed at the EU level and supported by a growing number of funding organizations, there have been other initiatives, and still more are likely. Events are in rapid motion. All the initiatives, especially “Plan S”, will have significant impacts for the current publishing community, with particular effect on society publishers and publishers in non-science areas such as humanities and social sciences. The session will conclude with a discussion of what we have learned so far.

Convener: Ann Okerson (Center for Research Libraries)

Speakers to address this session in panel format:

Jasmine Lange (Brill)

Natasha Mellins-Cohen (Microbiology Society)

Simon Ross (Manchester University Press)
